About us

All Wales People First wants to ensure that people with learning disabilities in Wales, can have access to self-advocacy support so that they are able to voice choice and control.

We want to ensure that people with learning disabilities understand their rights, especially their Human Rights.

We want to ensure that people with learning disabilities can move towards greater independence and an increased quality of life which they choose for themselves.

We want to promote the values of self-advocacy as a preventative service, and to move away from dependency on services that undermine independent living.

What is Self advocacy?

Self-advocacy is about speaking up for yourself. It is about growing your confidence and skills to make your own decisions.

For non self-advocacy groups, organisations, Statutory organisations and individual professionals who want to receive information about the work of All Wales People First.

The advent of the Social Services and Wellbeing (Wales) Act has placed self-advocacy under the microscope, and there has been increasing interest by professionals and Statutory organisations, in our work.

We believe that self-advocacy has proven qualities in empowering individuals to have real choices about independence and to achieving equality.

The development and preservation of self-advocacy as a preventative service thus has much to offer in the way of support cost savings.

We recognise that organisations are keen to engage with us as the United Voice of Self- advocacy, and this is why we have introduced a subscriber category.

This category will enable organisations and professionals to engage with our members, and to stay connected with the development of self-advocacy in Wales.
