

Coronavirus and people with learning disabilities: A study of the lives of people with learning disabilities through the coronavirus pandemic

Thank you for taking part in this important study

149 interviews were carried out with people with learning disabilities living in Wales

Stage one interviews are now closed. We will now see if there is anything, we can make better before we start stage two

Stage two will open on 15th March. We will contact you again around this date.

It is important that we speak to you again to find out how you are doing

Please read the Participant Information Sheet for more information on the study

Please let me know if you know of anyone else that would like to take part in this study
